

METHOD AND DEVICE FOR COMMUNICATION USING AN OPTICAL SENSOR

Abstract

A device for communication may include an optical sensor to capture an image. A processor may be provided to identify or select a class of data in the image and to perform a predetermined function in response to the class of data.